General Comment

Cape Cod is one of the last natural environments in the country. We are so blessed that it has remained as natural as is has. Why would we want to knowingly ruin it. John F. Kennedy had a vision that we should appreciate and respect for it's foresight. Many come here to get away from the steel, the dirt and the concrete of their cities. Let them have a refuse just like the migrating birds and whales that need this environment to survive. We will lose more than you know if steel turbines are placed along our shores and once done, the damage is irrevocable.

Please think of what is at risk. Thank you.
